Cherie Helps Sheryl

Cherie Bogar, eighth grader, of Baltimore, Maryland, and her father, Joseph J. Bogar have visited Appomattox many times and are subscribers to the Times-Virginian. Recently, Cherie read about a little three-year old girl, Sheryl Moore, who lost her toys in a fire. Cherie gathered together a large box of toys and sent them here as her part in helping a family with a big loss. Cherie and her father are both interested in history, in writers, and in meeting new people. In her travels Cherie has met persons in the writing field such as Glenn Tucker, in N. C., Burke Davis and Clifford Dowdy in Va. and Katherine Jones in S. C. Her present correspondence list contains students in England, Scotland, India and the Republic of China.

CONFERENCE SET ON TUBERCULOSIS

A State Conference on Tuberculosis will be held in Richmond, on November 16th and 17th under the sponsorship of the Virginia TB and Respiratory Disease Association and the Virginia State Health Department.

It will bring together representatives from the U. S. Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, from H.E.W., from the State Health Department, the Department of Welfare and Institutions and the Department of Education. A number of local health service representatives will attend, together with heads of Virginia Sanatoria.

The Conference will be moderated by Dr. Donald L. Brunner, Associate Professor of Medicine, Medical College of Virginia, Health Sciences Division, Virginia Commonwealth University.

This Conference is a sequel to the Roanoke Conference on TB, held ten years ago. The purpose is to assess the progress made since that conference, the management of TB today, and the current TB problem. Techniques and services [illegible] Conference.

Governor Linwood Holton recently signed a Proclamation citing the Conference and urging its success.

The statistical breakdown points out that of the 540,000 living veterans in Virginia some 6,400 served in both the Vietnam and Korean Conflicts and about 35,000 served during both the Korean Conflict and World War II. Veterans with questions on benefits are urged to contact the VA Regional Office at Roanoke. Those who served since Feb. 1, 1955, may be eligible for GI Bill training. Those who served since June 27, 1950, may be eligible for home loans.

Proclamation

Pulmonary tuberculosis remains the single most serious communicable disease problem in Virginia. The success of programs designed to eradicate the disease depends on a high level of public interest as well as excellent public and private services.

The Virginia Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association will hold a Virginia Tuberculosis Conference November 16, and 17, 1970. The purposes of this Conference are to reassess management procedures to meet the changes in the epidemiology and treatment of tuberculosis and determine priorities and efficient programs to combat the disease.

I urge all citizens of Virginia to respond through an intelligent acquaintance with tuberculosis and accept medical advice which is so vital to breaking the chain of infection.

Linwood Holton, Governor

With fuel costs going up, you want to keep your heating bills down.

We want to help.

This is the winter to do everything you can to cut your heating bills. Because this winter some combustible fuel costs will be higher.

We're facing the same problem you are. The cost of the coal we burn to generate electricity has gone up 35 to 40% this year.

So we understand the problem. And we want to help.

If you heat your home electrically, we have good news. The cost of electric heat will actually be lower this winter. That's right, lower. Even though rates went up in July for the first time in 16 years, our average electric heat customers will find that the new winter rate will result in heating costs that are reduced by as much as 16%.

Whether you heat your home with oil, gas, coal, or electricity, there's still a lot you can do to cut your heating bills. By making sure your heating system works as efficiently as possible. And by preventing unnecessary waste.

Here are four suggestions that will help:

1. Make sure your home is properly insulated. It takes twice as much fuel to heat an uninsulated home as it does an insulated one.

2. Install storm windows and doors. It can reduce heat loss by as much as 1/3. Sure, it costs money. But it's an investment that will pay for itself over the years.

3. Make sure your entire heating system is cleaned and checked at the start of the season. That includes furnace, flues, and thermostats.

4. Caulk around windows and doors, add weatherstrip doors. Every opening that will crack wastes fuel.

Will all this insulating, caulking, cleaning and caulking really make a big difference in your heating bills? It most certainly will. By a significant amount.

And that could go a long way toward keeping the rising cost of fuel from hitting home.

1970 SOC. SEC. INCREASE MUST BE REPORTED TO THE VA.

Veterans and/or dependents who receive VA Pension benefits must show the 15% Social Security increase on their 1970 income cards.

On April 1, 1968, Public Law 90-275 provided a change in VA Pension Laws. This amendment stated that it was not necessary to report certain income increases prior to the end of the year. This is known as the "end of the year" rule, and means that a Pensioner's benefits will not be affected during the calendar year that certain increased income is received. The VA policietys that any increased income, received during a calendar year, will not affect a Pensioner's benefits, providing the increase was unexpected. The interpretation of whether income is expected or unexpected income is a decision for the VA. The recently received Social Security increase was considered unexpected income, and it was not necessary to report it prior to the end of the year.

All income increases are not unexpected, therefore, it would be to the Pensioner's advantage to report all income to the VA during the month that it is received. This rule can prevent an overpayment that is sometimes created by not reporting these income changes until the end of the year.

Swamped Staff Sends SOS

A change in record keeping at Virginia Polytechnic Institute brought a request for 1,000 cards to be filled in by the county extension staff, a real challenge for a small staff. Miss Lelia Mayton, Jesse Ford and G. L. James, extension agents, set up a "doughnut and drink" party Monday for these 4-H members and others and the card fill-out was soon under way. It's not all done, yet, so more help is probably needed before each computer-type card is ready for the big machine at VPI. Each card carries the name of a county 4-H member, plus other pertinent information. Old-fashioned helpfulness came to the rescue, said Miss Mayton, in a challenge to get things ready for a computerized generation, (Standing) : Kim Harrison, Brenda Garrette, Mary Louise Parris and Donna Paulette. Travel Gains!

Despite a continuing soft economy in many places across the nation and in some areas of Virginia, the state's travel industry for the first seven months of 1970 posted excellent gains over the same period in 1969, according to the State Chamber's "Monthly Travel Barometer."

For the January - July period the combined attendance or visitation figures from 60 reporting stations across the state showed a total growth of 12.1% over the same 1969 period. These same reporting stations reported a July 1970 attendance growth over July 1969 of 29.75%.

An excellent July boosted year-to-date figures considerably since through June 1970 attendance state-wide was up only 7.04% over the same 1969 period with the non-park attractions posting a combined growth of only 1.56%.

During July the National Park Areas in Virginia reported a growth of 29.77%. For the first seven months of 1970 their attendance growth was 14.6%.

Forty-three other attractions in Virginia showed July attendance to be up 29.73% and for the January-July period an increase of 7.71%.

The Virginia Department of Highways recorded a 3.71% increase in traffic on Virginia highways for the first seven months of this year with Virginia cars' traffic increasing 3.89% and out-of-state cars' traffic increasing by 2.08%.

According to "Travel Weekly," travel all over the nation is running anywhere from 2% to 70% above last year. The uncertain national economy has failed to slow travel.

County Is 5th In Pulpwood Production

During 1969, the South produced over 40,000,000 cords of pulpwood. This was two-thirds of the Nation's total production for the year. Total production for the South was up 10 percent, or nearly 4,000,000 cords, from 1968. 25 percent of the pulpwood was hardwood with the remaining 75% being softwood.

Virginia was the only one of the southern states in which softwood production declined. It is now 30% below the figure for 1965, and has been declining for the past four years. This is mainly due to the decrease in total pine volume in the state, caused by a yearly cut which exceeds the yearly growth.

Appomattox County dropped to fifth largest producer of pulpwood in the state in 1969 compared with being third in the state in 1967 and 1968.
